BYLAW ENFORCEMENT PROCEDURES

1. The SIGD does not have the resources to formally review properties on a regular basis in order to determine whether or not its various bylaws are being complied with at all times. Therefore, except for called inspections arising from permit applications, it is the general practice of the SIGD to rely on citizen complaints as a means of alerting staff to violations of its bylaws. The SIGD has established the following policies and procedures in order to encourage a balance of accountability and confidentiality among the various parties to this process. This does not preclude staff of the SIGD from initiating investigations on their own initiative.
2. Bylaw enforcement investigation will be commenced on submission of written complaints. Complainants will be issued written confirmation of receipt of their complaint. If the preliminary investigation determines there is basis for enforcement action pursuant to the criteria set out in section 5 below, the normal bylaw enforcement procedure will be followed. If the investigation finds there is no basis for enforcement, the complainant will be informed their complaint does not meet the criteria. Upon completion of the investigation of legitimate complaints, the complainant will be sent written notification that a resolution has been reached. Please keep in mind that certain bylaw enforcement investigations can take several months before reaching conclusion. It is not the practice of the SIGD to seek a final legal remedy for all alleged infractions.
3. Please do not have several people sign the same complaint, rather, if a residence or individual is alleged in violation of SIGD bylaws and several neighbors consider it a nuisance, please fill out individual complaint forms. This assists in substantiating the alleged offenses.
4. As a matter of practice, the identity of the complainant and the written complaint itself shall not be disclosed to the alleged violator or any member of the public except for as outlined in sections 6 and 7 below. In addition, the response of the alleged violator shall not be made public or disclosed to the complainant except as outlined in sections 6 and 7 below.
5. Preliminary investigation will occur to determine if the activity or structure being complained about can be heard, or is visible, or creates noxious fumes, an odor, dust or nuisance outside the property, or is a use or activity in violation of the SIGD bylaws.

CONFIDENTIALITY ISSUES

6. The anonymity and confidentiality given to complainants and alleged violation under this policy cannot be assured if the investigation results in court proceedings.
7. If persons request from the SIGD disclosure of personal information about them in complaints and responses to the complaints under the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act, it shall be the policy of the SIGD to refuse disclosure under section 15 of the Act unless consent is obtained from the person who supplied the information and who would otherwise be assured of confidentiality under this policy. The SIGD however, is subject to orders issued by the Information and Privacy Commissioner under the Act and will not necessarily appeal an order for disclosure.
